

Our Official Statement on the Current National “School Choice” Debate:

We understand the topic of nation-wide school choice is one that is being heavily debated during this time in our country. At EarlyBird, we want all of our families and users to know that the experience you receive on our mobile application will always be the same worldwide so that regardless of where your child attends school, their education can only continue to be supplemented through our engaging videos, fun and exciting games, and incentivized tests. EarlyBird will keep the learning going no matter what, no matter where!

The EarlyBird mobile application is a supplementary education and virtual learning system. We are by no means a replacement for the school system. Using EarlyBird is possible for all children across the nation, and will also be made available on an international level soon. We are true believers that it takes both the traditional education system along with virtual learning system(s) to educate a child in today's thriving technological era. We support the choice that a child should be able to learn wherever they thrive the most. We also support the fact that a child can learn in a positive and supplemental way with our app at any time, given our servers operate 24/7/365. Learning never stops, and neither does EarlyBird!
